A man Recalled to Life

Jarvis Lorry

"It is a far, far better thing that I do, than I have ever done; it is a far, far better rest that I go to than I have ever known."

Marquis Evrémonde

"And them and their descendants, to the last of their race, I, _____, unhappy prisoner, do this last night of the year 1767, in my unbearable agony, denounce to the times when all these things shall be answered for. I denounce them to Heaven and to earth."

Lucie Manette

"The prisoner was as open in his confidence with me – which arose out of my helpless situation – as he was kind, and good, and useful to my father."

Madame Defarge

The only one brave enough to stand up to the Marquis when he kills a boy with his carriage

Charles Darnay

"These fools [the aristocrats] know nothing. While they despise your breath, and would stop it forever and ever, in you or in a hundred like you rather than in once of their own horses or dogs, they only know what your breath tells them. Let it deceive them, and then, a little longer; it cannot deceive them too much."

Sydney Carton

"Jerry, say that my answer was, 'RECALLED TO LIFE.'"

Monsieur Defarge

"Repression is the only lasting philosophy. The dark deference of fear and slavery, my friend... will keep the dogs obedient to the whip, as long as this roof... shuts out the sky."

Alexandre Manette
